

THE REAL WORLD IS NEITHER RED NOR BLUE.

LEADERSHIP DEMANDS A COMMON VIEW. The elections are over. It's time to get down to business.

And the business of governing requires statesmen and stateswomen who know how and when to put their partisan battles behind them and work together for the common good.

The world economy is more competitive than ever. America needs Congress to enact policies that will keep our economy strong now and in the future. And that means better math and science education, improved and affordable health care, expanded trade, energy security and responsible fiscal policy.

We urge Congress to find a common view on an agenda that will benefit America's workers, companies and the entire U.S. economy.

The members of Business Roundtable and our 10 million employees stand ready to help get the job done.
